missions. Then six of us went with Sis. Cluny to work on our discussions with the keyword method. I pretty much did the second discussion before and after lunch. Sis. Cluny asked me to be the group leader and check Tuesday night to see if the sisters meet their individual goals.

We had sacrament meeting with testimonies from people that were called on. We had more instructions, statistics, etc. The sisters stayed after for a special meeting to understand more about our special responsibility and calling.

Monday, March 27, 1972

We began this special day by getting up at 5:00 a.m. A large number of us fasted and didn't go to breakfast. We went over to the temple at 6:00. It was so beautiful to see the temple still lit in the early morning blue dawn. Sis. Boyce went right on in for the initiatory ordinances. There were only four sisters of the thirty-five who hadn't already been through. We had a full session even though a few elders went to an elder priesthood session. It was so choice to see all the brethren and hear them. After our beautiful session, at which we were shown much consideration, we were ushered up to the fifth floor to the solemn assembly room. It is a unique privilege offered only to missionaries. We were privileged to hear Pres. Lee and have him answer our questions about the temple. It was a very special 1 1/2 hours. Not all the sisters could go on a second session because they had all the brethren go. They took those who had been through only once or twice and still had a few openings, so I volunteered to go. I wanted to go through again with Sis. Boyce. And now I have my six endowment sessions for my Golden Gleaner Award. The first session I made it through the veil without help for the first time,
